The reply of the President to the New York Copperhead Committee who waited upon him to protest against the arrest of Vallandigham, and other secession sympawide attention. The justification the President makes is complete and satisfactory. The arguments he adduces will be hard to refute. He meets the point squarely, and shows that military arrests are perfectly constitutional outside the lines of military pecupation and the scenes of insurrection, when the public safety requires them: that it is equally as constitutional to arrest men to restrain mischievous interference with the raising and supplying of armies to suppress the rebellion as to arrest disloyal characters within insurrectionary districts and discharacters within insurrectionary districts. dent makes is complete and satisfac-Tebellion as to arrest disloyal characters within insurrectionary districts for disloyal practices; and furthermore, that arrests may as well be made "where they may restrain the enticing men out of the army as where they would prevent mutiny in the army; and equally constitutional at all places where they will conduce to the public safety as against the dangers of rebellion or invasion."

The President next proceeds to consider the committee demanded, and he closes the committee demanded, and he closes their mouths in a few sentences. As we have never seen the argument put in pleurer or more forcible language justifying the arrest we repeat it here:

"It is asserted, in substance, that Mr. V. was, by a milissy commander, seized and tried where the reason than words assetting in critical wides."

The question settled them, as to the capacity of the negro for a soldier, and his loyalty being proved on so many occasions, why should not the Government put every negro in the ranks at once, and let the black race help finish the war? There are nearly four million of blacks to draw upon as material for soldiers, and it would be possible to raise five hundred thousand in a very short time, to finish the business, and it seems to us a simple matter of common sense, and in accordance with the best interests of the nation, and with the rights of the people them selves, that we should spare as much white blood as possible during the rest of the war. The raising of these black troops would afford an opportunity for the promotion of many a brave fellow in the ranks of the volunteers, and it would be a fine piece of poetical, as well as moral justice, if the rebels who opened this war to percentage in the contrary of the desired that we should like to be enlightened. FARTADOR.

Young's Pointy, Lower Landing, La. June 9, 1983.

Editors Chicago Tribune:

The campaign which opened in the State of Mindeshpip with the bettle near Port Gibson, on the 1st day of May, will form a brilliant chapter in the history of this war, and shed apflading glory upon Northern arms. The character of the fighting, the raphdity of the marches, and the patient, and an all the marches, and the patient and an all decreased a contraction of the fighting, the raphdity of the marches, and the patient, the raphdity of the marches, and the patient, the raphdidecreased a contract of the patient of the Union: but it has been the fortune of some regiments to distinguish themselves more than others, and peform deeds of valor which find no parallel in the history of the heasted thirdly of past ages. These regiments have paid dearly for their regulations. The country has reaped a profitable harvest of victory from their glorious actions, and they are searly entitled to the credit of their achievements. It is only through the press of the country that justice can be done the solidiers who run extraordinary risk to win decisive victories, and now, through your journal, I wish to have public justice done a gallant western regiment.

Of all the battles fought in the roar of Vickaburg, that of Big Black River Raliroad Bridge was the most gallant on the part of the Federal, and the most disastrous to the rebes. The rebels were very strongly fortified—thad entrenchments extending around the sast end of the river. They had exerned piece of artillery planted in their works, and a very strong force of infantry, early posted ballad two lines of breastworks. Bound the entire outer line was a deep, wide ditch of water, with his staff to the Court Square. The slege guns of the fortifications were in the mean-time busy with the advancing enemy, vigor-outly planting shell and shot among them. Their cowardly occupation of the town, however, saved them many a shot, as the women and children resi-dents for a long time, prevented Col. Beard firing upon them. But it becoming known at length that the vandals-were pillaging the stores and hospitals, and becoming known at length that the vandals were pilinging the stores and hospitals, and ample time having been given the non-combatants to remove, the Federal artillerists threw four shells squarely into the town. One of them struck the Court House, one a Government stable, one somebody's carriage house, and one an unoccupied store building. No citizens were hurt, and only one rebel wounded, and he by a failing brick. The effect of the firing, however, was to akedaidle the rebel marsaders, who as egickly as possiger, and the 6th and 4th Kenincky, the 6th Pennsylvania, the 1st Tennessee, and the 2d Michigan cavalry, under command of Colonel Compbell of the latter regiment, were rapidly

Mrs. Mattle Patterson was yesterday started for Jeffersouville, Indiana, where for the next, three years she is to be an innuste of the Pentientiary, punishment for playing spy within Federal lines. Mrs. Pa terson came through from Shelbysyille some two weeks ago, and on the very day of her arrival here was detected in the net of sending a dispatch to Major Clare, Inspector General on Bragg's staff. The dispatch informed the rebel Major that Rosecrams was evidently about to move against Bragg. The woman was, of course, in mediately arrested, and upon subsequent trial by military commission was found guilty as charged and sentenced to imprisonment for life. Gen. Rosecrams, however, communed the sentence as above indicated, faing the term at three years. Mrs. Patterson claims to have been once a resident of Stanlens to have been once a resident of Stanlens to have been once a resident of Stanlens to have been once as well to Jackson, Masslappi, and there became acqualated with and married her husband Patterson. She, of course, denies guilt, says the dispatch was written for the purpose of trying the woman who was spyling her.

All ADVENTURES COMMITS SUICIDE.

One day last week, a dashing officer got aboard the cars at Nashville, for Muriresshore, whose papers showed him to belong to the 3d New Tork cavalry, and traveling on dioversment business. Certain irregularities, however, led the Milliary Conductor, Capt. Ward to suspect him, and on arrival of the train, the gay Lientenant was invited to the colice of the Provost Marahal. He gave the name of L. Hassman, and made a clear, smart statement for himself, showing, beyond doubt, that he had been a member of the N. Y. cavalry. But explaining his business in this Department put him to confusion, and gave the suthorifies belief that he was a more adventurer—a smart private, perhaps, out on a lark. The fellow was accordingly started to Unchanati, in charge of an officer, to be forwarded on to New York. On the boat, going up from Louaville, he was heavily iround, but otherwise given freedom. When a short distance showe Carrollton, Ky., the prisoner sudenily sprang from the guards into the river, and, of course, carried by the from below the surface, was quickly drowned. The fellow's desperation gives room flor the idea that he was something more than an adventure. Very probably the suicide terminated the career of a very dangerous robel spy.

It may be that the rebush was such easy ingress and egress through our lines as to make item fool hardy, or it may be that the foriuses of war are gooding them to desperation, but certain it is that their emissaries and spies have been recently arrested inside the line, but non heave been recently arrested inside the line, but non had full particulars of the hanging by last night's dispatches, but the history of the case is worshy of perpetuation, and I shall accordingly during the day procure copies of the official correcepondence between the authorities here and at Franklin, and forward you

DEGANIZATION OF A NEW MILITARY DEPAI MENT. [From the Pittsburgh Gazette, June 13.] IFrom the Pittsburgh Ganetic, June 13.]

General W. T. H. Brook, who has been avaigned to this military department, has assumed command, and established his head-quarters in this city, as will be seen by the following official notice. We have had the pleasure of a brief interview with Gen. Brook, and feel preposessed in his favor. He strakes as as being a gentleman and a soldie—one whom we shall all appreciates and extern as we become better acquainted.

The Government is now fully aroused in reference to the importance of this city as a vital balon point; the sneamy so cook determined to work out city. We are no alsumiest, but we have sufficient information in regard to current military events to fix the belief that our city is now in manner danger of a rebet attack by a strong force of cavalry and artiliery, under a bold and desperate leader.

Let our people arouse themselves to the fact. We have now a military executive head, clothed with full power to urganize the particular material, and protect our city from the heavier. In addition to the voluncer forces under the command of General Brook, let under the command of General Brook, let under the command of General Brook, let under the melves in readness to act as becomes brave men.

We feel warranted in stating that the local the wounded of our own, and the rebel force. At Wilson's Greek, Cost. Cornyn dressed Gen. Lyon's first wound—a sight scalp wound—upon the deld. He saw she here die, and with his own hands was the person who covered Gen. Lyon's face with a cost, as the corpes was borne from the field, to prevent paid from following the discovery by the soldiers that their gallant leader was no more. After the death of Lyon, the Doctor participated both professionally and practically in the battle. He dressed the wounds of his men, and gave the rebels leaden pills which were not good for their digestion. He, with a few others, insisted upon holding the field, for the salvation of the lives of the injured men. But another course was taken, and these brave spirits left to die a crael death upon the blood-stained earth.

Col. Cornya was with Gen. Fremont upon the celebrated hundred day's campelyre, and was in samp with his regiment, and pursued the study of artillery under the present Gen. Dubols. From thence the Colonel was ordered to Fort Donelson, but arrived one day after the rebels had surrendered. He next appeared upon the field at Shiloh, and put into practical effect the theory he had formed of artillery—his regiment having been changed finto an artillery regiment by order of the War Department—and was complimented upon the battle field for his skill and gallantry, and mentioned favorably in the official report of Gen. Hurthurt. He was thrice wounded in the fismous battle of Sunday, and yet fought on—and manised a gun all day on Konday the Thord April, memorable in the annals of the war as one of the bloodest of its blood-stained record. He was also at the slage of Corinth, and marched with Gen. Peppe in his rupid parvails of Bessuregard after the evacuation.

The parties have not been out of Rochester since their first arrival there the of the 11th, giving an account of the arrest of the guilty parties, varies considerably from the Globe's account: the guilty parties, varies considerably from the Globe's account:

At a late bour last evening, we learned that Capt. Massay, the "abductor" of Miss McTavish, was arrested at about 7 p. m., at the United States Hotel, Avon, under the following circumstances:

The police authorities reserved intelligence from Avon yesterday forenoon announcing a gentl-man and lady knawering the description of the fugitives, had just arrived at that place in a hack from this city. Deputy Shoriff Wilson was at once notified, and having in possession an order of arrest issued by Judge Johnson, procured a convayance and drove to Avon. On arriving there he was usable to find any Deputy Shoriff of Lilvingston county, and was compelled to telegraph the Sheriff at Genesse. Meantime the Captain and Miss McTavish were at the hotel, making preparations to leave by the atternoon train for Simira. Massay had employed a Rochester porter to stand as sentine on the hotel ramparts and report the advance of any suspicions characters from this direction; but Mr. Wilson effected a safe reconnoisance under cover of a shouched halsand a pair of green goggles, and became perfect mastar of the situation. The porter had conveyed one or two trunks to the depot before the arrival of the sheriff from Genesce, and when task gentlement by Mr. Wilson, the loving couple (we mean the runaways) had just put themselves under light marching or ders for the "next train." The officers explained their business, and the Captain tref to blut them off, but it was no use. The shoriff handcunfed his prisoner, despite of all remonstrances on his part, and the agonizing cears of Miss McTavish. She was left at the hotel, while her paramon was forthwith takes to Genesce and placed in Livringston country jaf. crops destroyed by the merciless hords. The vitiales carried matters at last to such a pitch that the whole community became aroused and determined to break up the band. The citiagus of Mattoon telegraphed to Obicago the distributed of Mattoon telegraphed to Obicago the distributed of the opera season has come and gone, and the Belles of the average breaths from the job." He went to Mattoon about a fortnight ago, and in a very few days had his "sight" all right upon a gang of burglars, and so accurately drawn that he knew the exact minute and exact locality when and where the gang would attempt their operations, and he made his arrangements accordingly to give them a warm reception. In the formation of his plans he learned that on Wednesday night, the 10th inst., they were to rob Mr. Lee Chapin's counting room, in his grain warehouse, at the west end of Mattoon. A deem or two of citizens, well armed, were posted in various places adjoining this warehouse, to watch and assist. About half past to relock the burglars appeared, five or six in number, and immediately with a chiscal forced open a shutter on the south side. After having tried al. the doors and windows and entered, Chris, and the citizens at once ruebed upon them from all sides, completely surrounding the rooms. The burglars made a fierce resistance, firing several shots, but fortunately hitting no one. Daring the light, the leader of the gang, Frank Rader, was cut with a knife so badly that he will pay the penalty of his villainies with death. Seeing the fall of their leader, the gray surrendered without further resistance. Their names are Frank Rader, the leader; Henry Roberts, just out of the Missourit Peatientiary; Win, Gerhold, and Edward Frederick. The desperadoes were taken into custody, and after an examination before Justices Davis and Voris, were committed, and immediately taken before the Cilcuit Court, which is in session at Charleston.

After dispessing of his burglars, Chris, pushed on in search of another portion of the pushed on in sear fore the Circuit Court, which is in session at Charleston.

After disposing of his burgiars, Chris. pushed on in search of another portion of the gang engaged in stealing hosses. His route lay through a densely wooded country, and after proceeding about eight miles, he suddenly came upon the headquarters—a miscrable log house, located in a thicket almost impassable to man or beast, and many miles from any human habitation. The secluded character of the place evidently impassed the horse thieves with the idea that they could escape detection, but in this they were mistaken. the horse thieves with the idea that they could escape detection, but in this they were mistaken. Chris, with his companions, surrounded the house, and after a savage resistance upon the part of the women, captured two desperadoes, James shifted and Adwell Ashford. Only two of the stolen horses were found, and with these and the two thieves, Chris marched in triumph into Mattoon.

But his labors were not yet at an end. Fitten miles farther on, and in a locality, if anything, more inaccessible than that of the borse thieves, were some counterfeiters, who must be ferreted out before the gang was entirely broken up. Nothing daunted, Chris, set off, and in a day or two hauled up at a norse interes, were some connected any was en-must be ferreted out before the gang was en-tirely broken up. Nothing daunted, Chris. set off, and in a day or two hauled up at a blacksmith's shop near Charleston, where Joseph Strickland and his father were ostenalluded to could be readily obviated, and the performances could be made fully up to the standard of the most exacting musical taste.

Altogether, we congratulate our opera goers on the opportunity afforded them at this time, and have no doubt it will be gladly embraced. We might allude to some of the more brilliant and noticeable features of the opera, but shall be content with the mere mention of the famous trio, and of the Breadia, which was rendered with much grace and effect by Mad'lle Morensi.

To night the delightful ones of Martha. Joseph Strickland and his father were osten-sibly engaged in shocing horses, but really in manufacturing bogus United States coins. To capture them was an easy task, and in the same building they also found one Edward White, "the shover," who was engaged in passing and selling the coins made by the Stricklands. This ended our detectives la-bors, and for the third time he went into Mattoon with portions of the band. They were all Copperheads of the worst descrip-tion, and during their trial their brother Cop-perheads, who abound in that locality, at-perheads, who abound in that locality, attempted to rescue them. The citizens, bowser, surrounded the Court House, armed with guns, and the Copperheads sinnk away without daring to make an attack.

Rader, as we have already stated, was so badly wounded that he cannot live, and it is stated will turn State's evidence, in which versu others will made about the channel to a proper death. The committee appointed by the Board of Trade to obtain estimates as to the best means of improving the channel at the entrance to our harbor, have not completed their labors and the maintenance to one harbor, have not completed their labors and the maintenance to one harbor, have not completed their labors and the maintenance to other ways have been suggested, among others the nae of iron charbor to the Treasurer of the Soldiers' Home suggestion, that this money should be paid over to the Treasurer of the Soldiers' Home Association, to be applied towards establishing in this city this much needed institution, for the accomplishment of which the Ladies of Chicago are at present making an earnost effort. We know of no more commendable or humans enterprise, than this, and we cannot concedve of any objection that can be urged against this use of the fund, by any of the contributors to the Canal Fund. As an instance of the estimation and importance placed upon this enterprise by one of our leading werehands, as well as to lavite others to emulate his example, we mention the fact that a committe of ladies called upon P. Palmer, soliciting a donation towards the Soldiers' Home. He stated he was daily saked to subscribe for some charitable object, but considered this one of the most important, humans and deserving projects he knew of Showing "his faith by his works," he gave the ladies $100 in cash, towards establishing the Soldiers' Home. We trust others will show a commendable liberality, and that the funds in the hands of the Convention Business Committee, will be appropriated to this object.

SINGULAR ACCIDENT AND FORTUNATE ESCAPE.—AS Mr. S. S. Williamson, of 154 South Water street, was riding with his wife, on Saturday evening, on Canal street, between Lake and Randolph, a horse on the opposite side of the street, led by a groom, quickly turned and kicked, striking Mrs. Williamson a severe blow above the ankie. Their horse started and wheeled, breaking the Barness and tated will turn State's evidence, in which vent others will undoubtedly be implicated is believed now that the gang is thoron broken up, and that the citizens of Mat-con will henceforward be entirely freed from the depredations to which they have so long een subjected. For this desirable consumnation the citizens of that place are indebted to officer Strebel, and officer Strebel in turn indebted to Mayor Pilkington and Ald

A Wont to Farmers and Wood Growers.
—The clipping season is over, and the wool gathered in. The question now to be settled by the owner is as to what disposition he can make of his wool, to not him the greatest amount of profit. The present wholesale mount of profit. The present wholesale mount of profit. The present wholesale amount of profit. The present wholesale with the profit of the wool in the profit of the wool in the wool in the wool in the wool in the present wholesale and doesn pairs of socks, now in demand even, when, at $5.00 making $250, a profit of $140 on the meanufactured article, over and above what could be realized from the sale of the rew material. As knitting machines cost but $50 in this city, and can be managed by a woman or child, any farmer who raises wool can see the advantage of manufacturing his wool, instead of throwing it upon the market. We hope the country press will take notice of this and thus advance the interests of the farmer, and the whole country, by encouraging this brauch of home manufactures.

JUDD & BLAKERIKET'S CONFECTIONARY AND IC CHEMAN SALOOK.—This firm have taken the old and popular store of Eckhardt & Co., 28 State Street, (corner of Quincy) and fitted up one of the neatest and most pleasant ice cream alcons in the city. Chartanes.—To those of our citizens who may be called upon by the Rev. H. Suyders, soliciting contributions, we would say that we heartily recommend him and his cause. The Second German Baptist Church has recently been organized on the North Side and they are desirous of securing a suitable edifice in which to worship.

Their pastor Rev. H. Snyders is anthorized to make such collections and appeals to the Christian community to assist him in his labors. In a city where there are more than thirty thousand Germans, hundreds of whom never enter an Evangelical Church it becomes all carnest Christians to lend every add to objects which tend to lead the German community, to a higher state of morality. nity to a higher state of morality.

ONE DAY FOR RECREATION.—There has never been a pie nie planned, on so extensive a scale, or one where the tastes and business engagements of our citizens or mease were as carefully consulted and thoroughly complied with, as the Grand Excursion to be given a week from next Thursday, by the Musical Union. So is ras the convenience of the excursionist is concerned, they have chartened uralonists is concerned, they have chartered he Milwaukee Railroad for the day—from 8 a. m. to six p. m. Singing, instrumental mu-sic from two bands, dancing, swinging, rowing, fishing, &c. There will be a general good time at Forest Bay Grove on the 94th. Make a note of it and be on hand.

STRAWBERRY PESTIVAL AT BRYAN HALL Synawherry Fretival at Bryan Hall.— The friends of Lake Forest (late Lind) University, are making their arrangements to give a grand Strawberry Festival at Bryan Hall, on Thursday the 18th lost, for the purpose of procuring a philosophical apparatus and library. The ladies and gentlemen of the South Division who will assist in the enterprise are lavited to meet at Rev. Mr. Humphrey's, let Church Lecture room, this evening at 8 o'clock. Those from the West Division, at Rev. Mr. Swazey's, on Wednesday afternoon at 40'clock. afternoon at 40'clock.

Winoxa And St. Peterns Railboah.—Mr. W. G. Van Buskirk, Master Machinist of this road, (formerly of the Chicago and Northwestern,) was in the city yesterday, purchasing railroad supplies. From him we learn that the Winona and St. Peters road is already in operation thirteen and a half miles from Winona, and that it will be completed to St. Charles on the let of August. The company have manifested great energy in punhing their work forward.

Sernous Accident,—yesterday afternoon a little girl six years of age, named Mary Jane King, whose parents live on Randolph street, opposite the V st Market, was accidentally run over by a b.er wagon, near her father's house, and very severely injured. Her wounds were properly dressed by Dr. Wanzer, but it is feared she may not survive. No blame is attached to the driver of the wagon.

turned and kicked, striking Mrs. Williamson a severe blow above the ankie. Their horse started and wheeled, breaking the harness and partially dragging Mr. Williamson over the front of the carriage, at the same instant that the vicious animal alongside dealt a second blow, planting his heels against the buggy, overturning it completely, and throwing the occupants on the ground in such a position, that the vehicle passed over them both.

The furious beast suddenly disappeared from the scene of his exploits, and the frightened carriage horse, breaking from a bystand or, to whose care it had been committed ran some distance before he was caught. Mr. Williamson escaped with a few bruises; kirs. Williamson was carried into a neighboring grocery, and, when she had recovered consciousness, was taken home. Dr. Hollister, happily, no bones were broken, and that when the intense pain from the kick should subside, there would be no permanent injury from the accident.

Firms.—On Saturday evening, at 9½ o'clock, the dagnerrean rooms of J. D. Durnes, 83 West Randolph street, were fired in five different places, probably by incendiarism, as the premises had been fired once before. The occupants of the building were first apprised of the fire by the arrival of the Tempest Hose cart, when the fiames were extinguished. The damages amount to $20, which is covered by insurance.

On Sunday afternoon, at 3 o'clock, an alarm was made for the Third District, cased by the burning of a one-story frame building on Baxter street, in the West Division, which was owned and occupied as a match factory by William Driver. The building was burned down, with a loss, including stock, of $400, which was fully insured.
